Howard McDonald, Salt Lake City Schools Superintendent, Named BYU President

Howard S. McDonald, superintendent of Salt Lake City schools, has been named president of the Brigham Young University by the board of trustees to replace Dr. Franklin S. Harris who will be president of the USAC in Logan. Mr. McDonald's appointment becomes effective July 1, the same time President Harris begins his AC work.

Through a native of Utah, President McDonald has lived in California a great deal of the time. There he received most of his educational experience. He was deputy superintendent of the San Francisco schools before he became Salt Lake City school superintendent last July.

After receiving his BS degree in irrigation and drainage engineering from the USAC in 1921, President McDonald obtained his MA degree in school administration from the University of California in 1925.

Since that time he has remained in California, where he has been instructor, principal in San Francisco high schools, and director of personnel for San Francisco's 3,330 school teachers. After that he was named deputy superintendent of his district's schools.

He has completed further advanced studies and is now a candidate for his doctor's degree, which he expects to receive this fall.

President McDonald has always been active in church affairs. He filled a mission to the Eastern states and was a state MIA and Sunday school officer in both the Cache and San Francisco states. He served as counselor in the Salt Lake stake for five years before becoming president. In 1943 he was released from his stake by his doctor's degree.

The new president was born in Holladay, Utah, the son of Francis and Rosella Stevenson McDonald. He married Ella Gibbs of Brigham City and they have two children.

Full Schedule For Spring

Nearly 400 classes in the various departments will be taught at Brigham Young University during Spring quarter, it was announced today by John E. Hayes, registrar.

Classes for winter quarter will terminate tomorrow, and registration for spring quarter will begin March 26, with class work commencing the following day.

Two members of the faculty who have been engaged in scientific work for the government in the South Pacific, will return to their regular positions at the university beginning the spring quarter. They are Dr. Carl F. Taylor, and H. H. H. professor of physics and mathematics, and dean of the college of Arts and Sciences, and Dr. Wayne H. H. professor of physics and mathematics.

New students anticipating registration at BYU the coming quarter are urged to bring their transcripts of credit. Registrar Hayes stated.

Hilton Chosen Soph Vice Prexy

Carole is from Delta, Utah, and a member of Beta Beta Beta, social unit. She is also in Y Cancers, sophomore girls' honorary.

She will assume her duties immediately to assist John Christiansen, president, and Ellen Ashworth, secretary.

Tickets On Sale For Junior Prom

With the theme still a secret, extensive preparations are being made for the annual Junior Prom at BYU to be held March 30 in the ballroom of the Joseph Smith building. It will be strictly formal, and corsages will be in order.

Events will also remain a secret until the dance. Only a limited number of tickets are to be sold, and they may be obtained from members of the committee or by writing to Ruth England, care of Brigham Young University.

At the student body assembly on March 29 the theme will be announced on an all-junior assembly. Shipley Snow, Prom chairman, and his committee are executing extensive efforts to wards making the annual affair a big success.

Shipley is assisted by Ruth England, president junior class; Guy Shields, business manager; Thylis Hunt, secretary; Junior class; Sheldon Lowry and Elmer Mac Goates, decorations; West Soap and Mary Donna Jones, assembly; Elmer Bowack, refreshments; and a promenade; Marian Owens, programs and invitations.

Ybarra Discusses Latin America

The United States and Latin America "continuing have" "a new era of relations—a era of wartime cooperation—which has brought about greater friendship in all cases except that of Argentina. T. R. Ybarra, famous author and former correspondent of the New York Times in Latin America, said last week in an address in the Joseph Smith building at Brigham Young University.

Speaking on the BYU lecture program, Mr. Ybarra asserted that the greatest problem facing this country is the transition from wartime cooperation with South American countries to permanent friendly relations and solidarity.

"The great question is can the United States accept a benevolent and yet a preponderant influence over South American allies?" he said.

Turning to the question of Argentina, he said that he disapproved the attitude of certain Americans who look at that South American country as pro-Nazi and anti-democratic. Argentina is not so much in favor of nations and against democracy as she is pro-Anglo and anti United States, he added.

He hailed the Act of Chapultepec, approved by Latin American countries and the United States at the recent conference in Mexico, as "the most important doctrine since the Monroe Doctrine." "It rings the knell of the isolation of the United States from Latin American countries and constitutes an invitation to the United States to take part in solution of Latin American problems," he asserted.

He cited two reasons for necessity of the U. S. exerting a benevolent and preponderant influence in Latin America as follows:

One—the necessity for promoting of Latin American trade.

Two—the safe guarding of the defense of America.

All students who are leaving school this quarter are reminded to finish payment on their 1945 Banyan, announced Ruth England, editor.

Pardoe Article Wins Acclaim

"Drama in Wartime London" magazine article by Dr. T. Earl Pardoe, head of the speech department at BYU, depicting the survival of high class drama in London despite wartime destruction and obstacles, has been published in the March issue of the "Play-ers' Magazine," according to word received at the BYU today.

Written from programs and notes of November 1944, when, not long after the war, the article asserts that the attitude of the British citizen and his Allies in relation to the London theatre is the very best proof of his high morale and reveals, more than anything else, his confidence in ultimate victory.

Shakespeare's plays are still being produced while American plays are very popular, the article points out. The most popular play is "Love for Love" and the most popular pantomime is "Humpty Dumpty."

SF High Gives Radio Program

The Spanish Fork high school will present the sixth program on a series of half hour broadcasts over KOVO, sponsored by the Brigham Young University speech department and prepared by the high schools of this area.

Broadcasts are made from the studio in the Joseph Smith building. Spanish Fork high school will broadcast Tuesday with a program including music and a speech prepared under the direction of faculty members Carl Oak and E. J. P. speech and music instructors at the Spanish Fork high school.

All students at the university are eligible for selection as representatives from the Y. Each of the participating schools will suggest topics to be discussed, and from this total three will be selected for debate in the assembly. Another Quarter

Another quarter! Tomorrow will mark the winter quarter of 1944-45 at Brigham Young University. Tomorrow will mark the end of plenty of activities, of plenty of learning, and of plenty of fun.

Tomorrow will mark the end of college for a few years for some fellows, and maybe the beginning of college for new students who will begin spring quarter.

Perhaps winter quarter is the most activity-filled period at BYU. At the very first, rush week had the spotlight, followed by goating and pledgings by all social units. Lessons and studies seemed to take a back seat for awhile, but after all unit festivities were over, normal school life was maintained again.

Then came basketball—and this year we had a team worth boasting about! How good it seemed to have college athletics once more! Who will ever forget our Cougars' gallant defeat of Colorado U. and the nip and tuck battle with Utah? To Coach Floyd Millet goes our unanimous nomination for "Coach of the Year," and to our fighting team goes a hearty handclap.

Besides social unit activities and an extra-good basketball season, many cultural and intellectual programs added to winter quarter. Lyceums, as usual, did their bit to give us a taste of the best in music and literature. The Operatic Quartet, Alexander Kerenisky, and all lyceums held were at an unusually high standard.

The BYU speech department did more than its share this year to give some of the best productions in history. A bit of the Orient provided the setting for the excellent and unique "Yellow Jacket," and to finish the dramatic schedule for winter quarter was the magnificent production of "Rebecca."

But let's look forward to spring quarter! With the wonderful change in the weather come more and better activities. To begin with, the Junior Prom will launch the social calendar, and the 1945 Variety Show will follow closely. Indeed, it seems as though spring quarter will equal or even outdo our full winter quarter.

So we'll see you next week all ready to begin the best spring quarter ever!

BYU Men at War

Word comes from headquarters in France that Basil W. Romanovich who made his home with Mr. and Mrs. W. S. USSTAF news and feature writer, has been promoted from corporal to sergeant according to an order signed by Lt. Commander Carl A. Spatz, commanding general of the United States Strategic Air Force in Europe. Sergeant Romanovich is an army war correspondent working out of the new room of the Public Relations office.

A former writer for the public relations office of the Ninth Air Corps the new sergeant has seen service in Egypt, Tunisia, Palestine, India, Libya, besides England and North Ireland. He has written stories for the wire services as well as for the hometown newspapers and soldier publications, "Yank" and "Stars and Stripes." The Eighth and Fifteenth Air (Continued on page 4)

Knighty nights...

By Mary Jane Miner

Now I lay me down to bed
Suffrin' from an ache in me little head.

On the morrow I will wake
Up at dawn or even daybreak.
And to finally I will go
Trudging through the ice and snow.

"I'll reach the classroom door
Where the teacher will ask for more

That my little brain can recall
So I flunk - - That is all.

With fond farewell we bid adieu to Rhoda Vaan Call who is going to Pocatello to play her piano concerto with the Idaho State Symphony. Good luck Rhoda Vaan, wish we could hear you!

Orchids and more orchids are due to Joan Spatz for her fine performance in "Rebecca." Nice going Joan, we hope to see more fine it.

While we're passing out orchids Katherine Hess deserves a few dollars for work as chairman of the Mardi Gras. Congratulations, Miss Hess, it was indeed a big success.

Did you see that smooth looking fellow Mary Donna Jones was with at the Mardi Gras? Can't beat that Elaine Stowell for versatility.

I was almost scared when I saw Boyd Peay enter the dorm dressed as a fierce looking pirate! Boyd has been a good boy lately, so there isn't much I can say about him. Oh, yes, Bev Cronin was his pirates for the evening, but Boyd's such a steady customer at the dorm he deserves to have his name in this column alone.

Well, well, if it wasn't Marian Hyde at the Rainbow Saturday night—and with a good looking English too!

What's the difference between a grove and a rut?

With buckets full of tears we might tender goodbyes to Miss Snow as she departed for Chicago. Although she's well off gone for these weeks, we'll miss her very richly, unless we're busy with this fight over who gets to sleep in her bed and who gets to lead the lunch line in.

If Barbara Bailey ever gets her income tax filed, we'll all be relieved. ES. Stop Starling! And that's NOT the way I did it!

Need Is Cited For Therapists

A critical shortage of qualified therapists who are adept in the proper care of infantile paralysis victims has caused the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis to appropriate $1,267,000 for the training of these vitally needed specialists. Basil O'Connor, president, announced today.

Present day medical treatment of patients with infantile paralysis demands more and more therapy. Mr. O'Connor explained, "A physical therapist is a technician who uses physical agencies such as heat, electricity, light, exercise, rest, muscle training and similar methods in contrast to the use of drugs, biological and surgical techniques."

"Today there are only 2,500 qualified physical therapists, of whom only 1,000 are in the armed forces. With earlier and more extensive use of such methods of treatment as well as the treatment of infantile paralysis, twice the number already trained could be used for this disease alone. It is estimated that an additional 5,000 could be used now, not only for the treatment of infantile paralysis but also for a large recovery from many other diseases and disabilities."

This 'n That

By Mave 'n Pat

Well, here we are, just as fresh as last week's bread. Yipe! These final exams really knock one down and drag one out—besides that, they make one rather tired.

It won't be long until the Junior Prom and all the girls will be going—then there's the Carol Beck and she didn't know if she would have a new formal for the occasion, but she wouldn't feel too bad if she didn't get it because even some of the girls who are going won't have new ones.

Dises of the week: Again available at local record shops is "Censored and Coca Cola," by the Andrews Sisters. Stan Kenton's recent recording of "Are You Livin', Old Man?" with "Every Time We Say Goodbye" on the reverse, is a good dupe for any collector—that is, barring garbage collectors.

Our bridge prize of the week for the best pun goes to Clyde "Pinky" Robbins. Don Reber was saying "I can tell you anything I want to know about cancer."

"Pinky" answered with, "You can't!"

Poem of the Week:

We got a gun so we could shoot,
We got a horn so we could hoot,
We got a little woman, but we want to know, now we can too—
Ain't we cute?

It seemed that everyone had a good time at the Mardi Gras. We finally went as pillows because we knew we would be sitting on the sofa all night. Joe King went as Little Boy Blue and Anna Graves went as his horn so that she could get tooled.

Romance of the Week: Our photographer, Phil Bean, got married last week. He's been busy taking pictures but he won't tell anything I want to know about.

We're happy to welcome Mr. McDonald to our happy little family. We wonder if he has learned to fly yet.

Thought of the Week: In the Spring a young man's fancy.

Straight From The Grave

By Bill and Dave

Editor's note: This feature was sent from Alance Lorraine, France, by two former ASTP cadets who were stationed here last year. They wrote a column, "Straight From The Grave," by Bill and Dave, for the Y News last year. Here is the letter that accompanied the article:

"Chalk it up to nostalgia, loneliness, egotism, or whatever, but I would accept or want this, or anything else that you wish to, to be in the Y. I thought you might be interested."

"It took a thirty mile trip and a lot of dogging around the local brand of army red tape to make the collaboration, but the fools that we are—we enjoyed it."

"The boys remember you, and I think they would like you to know it. Taking the liberty of doing for them what they would like to have done, we present you with the latest bit of trivia under the sun—straight from the grave, but nevertheless true, 'Straight From The Grave, by Bill and Dave.'"

Here's the article:

"ASTP Circular No. 1. For the convenience of the government it has been declared that the ASTP in some of its forms shall be discontinued."

Clothing Classes

clothing and textile classes running for periods of two or three hours during the previous procedure of running one hour with extra laboratory time to be worked in by students.

It is believed that the old method is an inelegant use of student time and energy which retards desirable progress. The new method is designed to aid student progress in a concentrated, continuous effort.

Classes to operate under the new procedure in the coming quarter will include Clothing and Textiles, 3, 5 and 55.

We had been expecting it for quite some time and still it came as a shock. We were a part of the Y. We had been through sometimes hard G understudy—we like the Y.

First and Dave said to take their last dig at Mave and Pat, and the men started to pack their gear, ready from the end of the car is typical—quite. It's all a rumor, chalk (Charles E. Powell, commandant). Don't you believe it, unquote.

We thought you might like a shot of the activity. First to Oregon where our ranks were thinned by Mergal, Sax, and the McMen boys going to Ft. Lewis. Then Fukarg, the lucky fellow went back to the air corps.

We started to be foot troops again. Schwartz made a wiseman—Thacher, Heavy MG, Dick Wyl, riflemen, and Neal Tuttle, BAR. We fell into the swing of things, but feeling good just the same.

Then on to sunny Missouri and things took up again. Furlongs started again, and you saw Jimmie Condon and Jablonski and others. The Y. We were thinned again. Alex Alexander was an MR as was the Y. We were thinned again. The loveable cubs was married and bit by shrapnel the same week. He couldn't see it.

We left for station X. We left for station X, plus 2, ad infinitum. And it takes up in France.

Jeff and Gernie contacted as did D. O. Smith. Lew Blomford made Field Commission and several of the boys were wearing Purple Hearts. Nowadays Rich Horvath takes care of them well in the Medics.

H. Hensdickson and Durocher are still together and Vince Rubel writes letters to yours truly in multi colored pen.

We who are left, when we want to think of something special think of the Y. Ever since now and then "other people" see two wild babbling people on the street and shake their heads pityingly—
We run over and join them, for we are the Y. Ever since now and then "other people" see two wild babbling people on the street and shake their heads pityingly—
The Pipes of Pan, The Sweet, the Ball, the From—the rest of the night.

Campus Chatter . . .

As usual, final test week puts society into the background, but it seems that some students have found time to relax from over-heating finals.

The Mardi Gras proved as gala as promised last Friday. Chairman Katherine Hess and Reed Mack came as Romeo and Juliet. When Gloria Grossman was awarded the prize for the best girls' costume, escort Sheldon Lowry looked as pleased as punch. Dee Sanford, dressed as a Turk, copped the boys' prize.

Besides just couples, some families even came. Howard Worth and Lucille Sandberg played a Gay Nineties mother and dad for the evening, while kiddies Mackie Ohman and Jack Anderson frolicked with their Easter baskets.

It seems that Shirdes Christensen has been spending her lovely evenings with scldier, Kenyon Anderson who is home on furlough. The Navy is occupying Carol Col-lard's time since Randy Clark, basketball ace, arrived from Great Lakes.

Sgt. Les Taylor is home and was enjoying "Rebecca" with Elaine Nicholas. Also attending the play were steady Andy Kimball and Phyllis Jones. Backstage after the production, Bryce Bailey and Clark Greenhough were hearing congratulations on rompy Ray Jones for a super performance. And star, Joan Spradley was reciting roses.

Nautilus girls showed up at the play in springy yellow sweaters. Mary Lou Dixon, Barbara Sherry, Beverly Cronin, and Norma Fresse were just a few of NLA attending en masse.

Songwriters . . .

Delta Phi Elects

Melvin J. Peterson has been elected president of Delta Phi, LDS missionary fraternity, for the 1945-46 school year to succeed Bryan West Belnap.

At elections held in the Joseph Smith building by the fraternity, Donald B. Cox was elected vice-president for next year to succeed A. Barty Horley.

Whyby Ricks was reelected secretary and William L. Pulsipher was reelected national delegate.

Clayton Reads Three-Act Play

Both Clayton read her three-act play for Mask club members last night. The play "Peg of My Heart" by J. Hartley Manner, which she read was an outstanding job.

Both is a senior this year and a speech major. She is affiliated with the Cesta Tie social unit of which she is vice president, and also a Theta Alpha Phi member, a Bahaian staff member and one of this year's mentors.

Her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Clayton also attended the performance.

Band Officers Are Elected

Last Friday members of the BYU band elected officers which will be in charge of next quarter's activities. Members elected were: Lucille Sandberg, president; Iris Richardson, secretary; Vernon Dieu, business manager; and Gus Shirdes, social chairman. These officers will be in charge of the social functions planned for the band next quarter and will take care of all business concerning concerts and other engagements.

With the presentation of two previous concerts, the band has a busy program outlined for next quarter. It will give its annual spring quarter concert early in the quarter. Two programs are scheduled during commencement week and the band will also furnish the music for the kiddie festival which the BYU training school presents each year. If adequate transportation can be secured, the band will also give a concert in Salt Lake City.

Skippy Fulmer, member of the Y's '42 basketball team, and at an all conference man, scored 21 points for his team in the first series of games played off at Denver in the National AAU. Skippy is now field director for the Boy Scouts in Colorado.

It was interesting to note in the recent all-state high school basketball tournament held in Salt Lake that of the sixteen coaches who entered team nine of them were former graduates of the Brigham Young university. Three were from Utah and four from AC. It was also interesting to your eagle-eyed reporter that the trend for defenses used by the various schools entered was that nine played man to man and seven played zone. Three years ago it was just the opposite.

The University of Utah will clash with Oklahoma A & M and Oregon will meet Arkansas on the 23 of March for the first round of the Western NCAA tourney. The Utes, however, will be without the services of all-conference Fred Sheffield as he cannot obtain leave from the navy.

Hats off to the Provo high Bulldogs for copping the state tournament the second straight year and for placing four of the squad on the all-state roster.

Four Fighting Teams Turn In Top-Notch Hoop Games

As the intra-murals sport season for basketball nears an end, the weekly games are becoming closely contested and are proving very interesting to all. Last week's schedule brought the strong undefeated faculty five to clash against the lanky Delta Phi missionaries.

Although the game ended in a 79-46 walk away for the Faculty it did have its moments of good ball, especially up until the second half.

Immediately after the opening whistle sounded the Delta Phi took an 8-4 lead and from the spectator's view it looked to be a close game and perhaps a victory for the plucky missionaries.

The Faculty was well represented, ed, however, in Buck Dixon and his five thrilling field goals in the first half, which kept them in the game.

With the score tied at 20 all and 30 seconds left in the first half, Millet let go a long field goal which split the hoop and the half ended 28-20, Faculty.

At the opening of the second half the Faculty staged their traditional offensive rally and surged ahead 40-29. The defeated missionaries looked helpless as Swenson, Millet and Crowton hit the hoop time and time again from all spots on the floor.

In the closing minutes of play the Delta Phi tried valiantly to stage some kind of a rally and stop the Faculty's rising score, but were able to obtain only 19 points which fell way short of their goal and the game was over.

Millet, Dixon and Crowton took scoring honors for the Faculty with 24, 16 and 15 points. Hal Taylor again starred for the missionaries with his fine bankboard work and his 12 points.

The second stellar game of the week, was the thrilling 41-43 Polcats' win over the Jay A's. This game was closely contested throughout and kept the spectators on edge every minute.

Dalley started off the scoring with a foul pitch and a field goal but was matched by Yui of the Jay A's who dunked in two long ones from the center strip. From here on out the game was basket ball as each team fought fiercely to keep in the lead.

In the closing minutes of the second quarter Landgren dunked in three long ones in rapid succession to give the Polcats a six point lead as the half ended 28-22.

The second half was not so much a free scoring affair as was the first two quarters. Good defensive work, spurred both teams and the ball seldom got past the free pitch line.

Paul Roberts of the Polcats played his best game of the season as he cleared both bankboard and was high man in shooting.

Little Fred Dalley and Landgren were the mainstays in the Polcat victory with their uncanny long field goals. Yui and Sano showed well as usual for the Jay A's and their fine ball handling and defensive work requires special mention.

Roberts was high man of the day with 17 points.

Three-Game Series

The undefeated Faculty five will play a two out of three series next week with an all star team picked from the remaining four teams. The All Star club will be picked by the Y News staff and coach Millet who is in charge of all intra-murals.

BYU Men at War ...

Forces as well as Eastern Command USSTAF (Russia) are the units that receive the attention of the sergeant.

Before entering the service three years ago, Sergeant Romanovich was a journalism student at BYU, and worked on the Y News, Banyan, and Wye magazine. Previously he had attended Columbia university and General Theological seminary in New York City. After attending these schools, majoring in different subjects at each one, he finally decided on journalism as his goal and entered the service before receiving his degree.

Several of his short stories and articles are at publishers at the present time awaiting publication.

After meeting one of his three brothers who are in the service, they decided to write a book on GI life which is at the present time almost ready for the publishers. His two sisters, Kathryn and Mary, are serving with the WAC and Nurse Corps respectively. The other brothers are Sergeant John, also a former student at BYU, serving with the Fifteenth Air Force in Italy, and Sergeant Paul, serving with the army in New Guinea. The fourth brother, Stephen, is in high school in Hershey, Pennsylvania.

Training in Fort Sill, Oklahoma, is Pvt. David E. Shelby, student here last year, who is in the field artillery training center there. Pvt. Shelby recently was discharged from the hospital where he was confined after a serious jeep accident. He is back with his regiment now waiting reassignment.
